Hot Topics

Community Hospital Update

Next Tuesday, February 12th, a closed session has been scheduled to take place prior to the regular city council meeting. City staff will seek direction from council based on the final terms received from the new operators of the hospital, the Molina Wu Network. Pending approval of a plan in closed session, the next step would be an open session vote at a future council meeting. With a vote to move forward, we are still on track for a hospital re-opening date in late April 2019.

Neighborhood Celebrates Safer Crosswalk

On January 30th, neighbors, nonprofit organizations and two city council offices gathered at 10th and Orizaba to promote street safety for pedestrians and vehicles. A new, solar powered, flashing beacon was installed at the crosswalk adjacent to Willard Elementary. The funding for the beacon was provided by both the 2nd and 4th council district offices. Thanks to the Rose Park Neighborhood Association for organizing this event. Pictured below are Gretchen Swanson of the RPNA, crossing guard Thy, Councilman Supernaw and Devon Ablard of CD2.

Pilates X Celebrates X Years in CD4

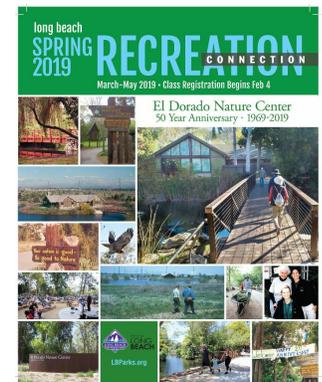

Last Saturday, I attended the ribbon cutting ceremony celebrating the 10th anniversary of Pilates X. Pilates X is a boutique style studio voted #1 in Long Beach! They specialize in Pilates, cardio and reformer classes with experienced instructors welcoming all ages and fitness levels without intimidation. Check out their website at www.pilatesxstudios.com.

And Finally

Round Buildings Part II

Two weeks ago, we featured photos of the round buildings that once stood near the Traffic Circle. Just up Lakewood Blvd. was, arguably, the most iconic round building ever built in Long Beach. The Elks 888 dome once stood at the northeast corner of Willow Street and Grand Avenue. It was replaced by The Grand that, today, serves many of the same functions. In researching photos of the dome building, I noticed what appears to be fresh concrete work in the foreground of the black & white photo below. That is the front entrance of Schroeder Hall at 3800 E. Willow that was being built at the same time. Schroeder Hall now serves as LBPD's East Patrol Division Substation.
