Hot Topics

Community Hospital Update

Things are moving right along in a positive direction since our March 12th council vote approving the interim lease agreement with Molina Wu Network. City staff is continuing to work with the Office of Statewide Health Planning and Development (OSHPD), and we'll update you next week with progress on that front. Our office is also hosting a stakeholder update meeting on Wednesday, April 3rd. Details are below:

CD4's Khmer Arts Academy Featured in LB Post Article

Congratulations to Mea Lath on the latest media coverage of her Khmer Arts Academy. The LBPost recently featured an article on this 4th district studio where young Khmer dancers keep the ancient art alive. The LBPost also produced a video (below) at the December open house that I had the honor of attending. Great work, Mea!

Los Altos Residence Receives LB Heritage Award

Last week, I attended the Long Beach Heritage 31st Annual Preservation Awards where the owners of the John McWilliams residence were presented with an award for rehabilitation. John McWilliams, an aerospace engineer, was inspired by Arts and Architecture's Case Study House Program when he designed and built his custom house in 1958. Blake and Melissa Nicolai purchased the house from McWilliams' estate and embraced its unique features, including a wall of glass that opens to a private rear yard. They did a remarkable job of preserving their beautiful mid-century modern house. Congratulations Blake and Melissa on your award, and Go Fourth!

And Finally

Community aka "Oak Park" Hospital

This week, I stopped by to see Community Hospital's transformation into a movie set. For three days, CHLB became Oak Park Hospital for an upcoming CBS medical drama pilot "Under the Bridge". It was great to see the facility looking and feeling like a vibrant hospital again. It was also nice to witness the absolute beauty of the hospital being captured by the camera crew. We had some fun with the clapperboard pretending I was in one of the shots. However, the actress behind me in the photo does not appear to be amused. You can read about the CBS pilot "Under the Bridge" at this link.
