

It's new! It's the law.

The City of Long Beach is requiring that all single-user restrooms in any business, City and government building, and other public places be available to all genders and have new signage, as mandated by State Assembly Bill 1732. It's not just for Long Beach, it's a statewide law.

The required unisex signage consists of a geometric triangle and circle without any text, graphics or gender designation. You'll be glad to know the specifications allow for a variety of color themes that are right for your place of business.
