

Know the facts:

DISSEMINATED GONORRHEA INFECTION

What is Disseminated Gonorrhea Infection (DGI)?

Gonorrhea is an infection you can get from having unprotected sex. You can have gonorrhea even if you don't have any symptoms. Without treatment, gonorrhea can spread through the body, causing disseminated gonorrhea infection, also known as DGI.

DGI can cause:

Fevers

Infections of the blood or heart valves

Joint pain, redness or swelling

Infections of the nervous system including meningitis

A rash that may become filled with clear fluid or pus

DGI is on the rise in California

The only way to prevent DGI is to get tested and treated for gonorrhea!

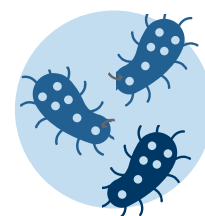

Call your doctor if:

You have DGI symptoms

You want an STI Test

You were exposed to gonorrhea